

Covid-19 Update

1st May 2020

Dear All,

First of all, we hope that all of our valued customers and their families can remain safe and well at this difficult time. Our health is a priority above all else.

At this time of increased volatility for global stockmarkets, it seems more important than ever to keep up to date and to have the best advice on hand. We have stayed fully operational, with very good access to companies and fund managers as usual, and we have been able to keep publishing as normal to advise you as best we can on how to invest successfully during this period.

In the event that printing services and postal deliveries are interrupted - not something we have experienced so far - we will try to deliver our services by e-mail wherever possible. Clients who normally receive their newsletters by post may like to send us a note of their e-mail address to admin@mchattie.co.uk, just so that we have it in case.

We have today sent out the May newsletters; if you do not receive your copy on time, due to local postal disruptions, please let us know and we will try to help.

With my sincere best wishes
